

TIMOTHY OULTON

SILVER CERTIFICATE ELECTRICITY

Wall Art

Framed in painted black wood, Timothy Oulton's Silver Certificate wall art depicts one of the most artistically-inspired series of antique U.S. currency, marking the nation's achievements and history. The bills were designed by prominent American artists and feature personified Neo-Classical motifs. They are considered to be some of the most beautiful monetary designs ever produced by the United States. The bills were redeemable for their face value of silver coins, and are still recognised as valid legal tender today.

Allegory of Electricity (1896): A $5 certificate where Electricity presents light to the world.
